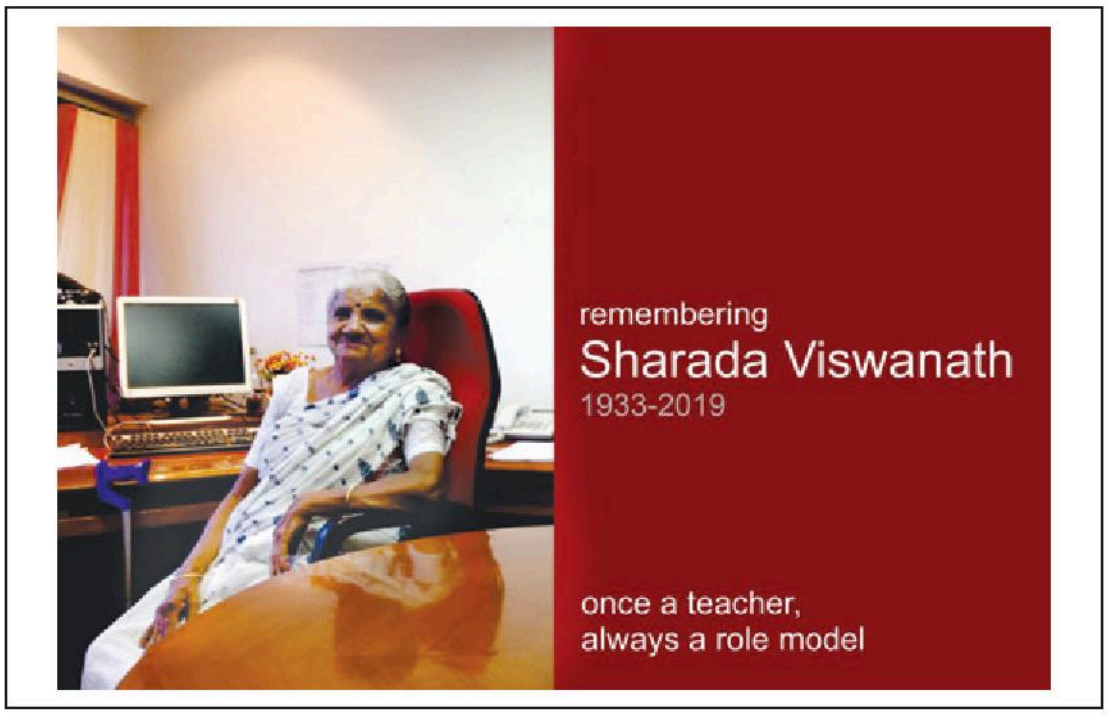
Technology cannot replace a Guru: Venkaiah Naidu

Vice-President inaugurates five-day Golden Jubilee celebrations of CIIL

Lays Foundation Stone for Rs.12 crore Dr. S. Radhakrishnan Auditorium at RIE

Vice-President M. Venkaiah Naidu unveiling a plaque to lay foundation stone for Dr. S. Radhakrishnan Auditorium at RIE in city this morning as NCERT Director Prof. H.K. Senapathy (extreme right) and RIE Principal Prof. Y. Sreekanth look on.



Mysuru, July 13 (PM& BCT)- Karnataka politics with its hour-by-hour twists and turns took a weekend break this morning with the MLAs relaxing in their plush resorts and the focus shifting on the Vice-President M. Venkaiah Naidu's visit to Mysuru.

The Second Citizen of India (President being the First) was in city to lay the foundation stone for 1,000-seat Dr. S. Radhakrishnan Auditorium at Regional Institute of Education (RIE), NCERT, in Manasagangothri.

Interestingly, Governor Vajubhai Rudabhai Vala, who was supposed to be the guest of honour at the RIE event, stayed away from the event probably because of volatile political situation in Karnataka where anything might happen and the presence of the Governor, the head of the State, is required in the State Capital.

Venkaiah Naidu, along with his wife M. Usha, arrived at Mysore Airport in Mandakalli here in a special flight last evening amidst tight security and stayed at the Government Guest House.

Hi-tech horse-trading

The terms democracy and self-rule, if considered as synonyms, may have to be redefined in the current context of the country and its masses being taken for a ransom by everyone-knows-who, going by media reports occupying most of the column space in dailies and telecast time on the small screen virtually serving minute-to-minute action similar to ball-to-ball radio commentary on cricket matches. The similarity has its meaning in the all-too-familiar scenario of horse-trading by power-hungry vote-seekers and match-fixing by the cricketers in quest of fast buck despite being paid cash in amounts that is envy of people. Party-hopping by the politicos of yesteryears and switching loyalties by their present-day cohorts, the former, few and far between while the latter, both sharks and small fry, routinely lured by cash in amazing amounts have turned into public entertainment, the mountainous cost of which doesn't seem to be bothered about by the land's people at large. Talk of the country rising to be a five trillion dollar economy in the next five to ten years, doubling farm income during the next two or three years, shelter for all in the country, zero unemployment and so on figuring regularly in the public domain by the powers that be seems to have lulled the masses into keenly looking forward to achhe din.

The full-time pre-occupation of the vote-mongers in Karnataka and many other States across the country with hatching plots to topple Governments while betraying the trust vested in them doesn't seem to have stirred the masses into a show of strength sending the betrayers to where they ought to be. There is no prize for guessing that destination correctly.

Dailies of all hues deserve to be thanked heartily for echoing the woes of the citizens in this functioning anarchy, in the words of renowned political analyst and former Ambassador of United States of America in India during the 1950s. A Financial Advisor to the country's one of the major multi-disciplinary research organisations, with an insight into the ways of its staff, took fascination to display three graphs on the wall in his Office to classify the research projects, all in humour without meaning to cast aspersions on the organisation's working or its staff. The first graph showed an upward moving line with the caption: Ongoing projects. The second graph showed a straight line with the caption: Non-going projects. The third graph showed a downward moving line with the caption: Gone-going projects.

Anybody can guess which of these above graphs unequivocally represents the development projects launched by Governments with cost estimates that can blow up the brains of the best Financial Advisors, on the agenda of Karnataka Government in particular and other Governments of States across the country in general, even as the politicos are over busy in hi-tech horse-trading marked by life in five-star hotels and hopping by air in chartered aircraft.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman's proposal to significantly increase the marginal tax rate for those earning more than Rs. 2 crore may be sound in principle but fails on the grounds of fairness and equity. To begin with, Rs. 2 crore per annum is too low a threshold in the present context, especially when our corporate sector has to attract talent at globally comparable salaries. Second, her target perhaps was the promoters of family-owned and managed enterprises. But the FM's failure to distinguish them from the professionals has led to a situation that might encourage (a) the return of 'white envelopes' with huge amounts of cash and consequently, tax evasion and generation of black money and (b) more executives becoming NRIs. — Krishan Kalra in Business Standard

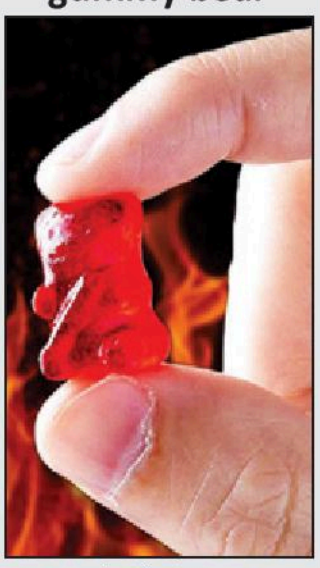
Tree logs turned into ultra-realistic animal sculptures

Barcelona: Spanish artist Gerard Mas has been turning tree logs into realistic animal sculptures.

By tirelessly chiselling away at logs cut from mature tree trunks then smoothing out his artworks with fine sandpaper, Gerard Mas is able to produce these almost perfect animal sculptures that literally look like photos of living creatures. And as if his works weren't impressive enough, the dark tones used to expertly recreate the fur of a doberman or the black snout of a German shepherd are achieved only by charring the wood with an open flame. The results are simply breath-taking.

World's hottest gummy bear



New York: Lil' Nitro, a gummy bear is 900 times hotter than a Jalapeno, making it the world's hottest gummy bear.

After the world's hottest lollipop and world's hottest candy, the devious minds at Flamethrower Candy have created the world's hottest gummy bear. Don't be deceived by its cute and appealing appearance, as this little guy is holding a dynamite stick for a reason.

It's made with a special chili pepper extract that's 900 times hotter than a Jalapeno pepper, and several times hotter than the Carolina Reaper, Dragon's Breath and Pepper X, which are generally regarded as the hottest peppers on the planet.

Erect movable barricades

Sir,

Apropos the news item "MCC pulls up its socks ahead of Vice-President's visit: Clean roads" (SOM dated July 12), we should congratulate MCC for attending to the road repairs en-route the Vice-President's convoy movement, thus making it motorable for the public also.

Some road humps like the one at the junction of Hunsur Road and Gokulam Road has been levelled for the smooth travel of our Vice-President.

The junction of Hunsur Road and Gokulam Road has a very high density of vehicular movement and by removing the road hump, now it will be very difficult for the motorists from Gokulam Road to turn right and enter Hunsur Road.

Instead of fixing road humps, which need to be flattened when a VVIP visits our city, it is better for the MCC and City Traffic Police to erect movable metal barricades at the junctions to make the vehicles slow down. Since these metal barricades can be easily re-located during the visit of VVIPs, even the expenses incurred for constructing and flattening of the road humps can be saved.

The authorities concerned should ensure that the metal barricades have proper reflecting stickers, enabling easy identification of the barricades from a distance during night hours, ensuring safety of the motorists.

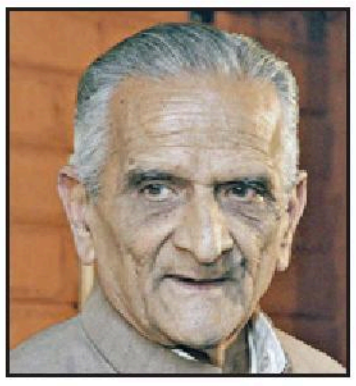
Veteran journalist passes away



C.M. Ramachandra

Bengaluru, July 13- Veteran journalist C.M. Ramachandra passed away here yesterday owing to age-related complications. The 94-year-old journalist was the Editorial Representative of The Hindu in Karnataka.

He is survived by his son. Born on April 24, 1925, Ramachandra joined The Hindu on July 1, 1952 after a four-year stint in Deccan Herald. He retired from the organisation in 1992, but continued to write political commentary regularly for Frontline.

Known for his mastery of political developments in Karnataka, he had covered the beat right from the State's formation on November 1, 1956. His reporting on the developments in 1969, when the Congress was in the throes of a split — into Congress (O) and the Congress (I) — around the Presidential elections, was considered perceptive. CMR, as he was popularly called, was among the earliest to win the Rajyotsava Award, for excellence in journalism in December 1985.

The author of several books, among his best known works are 'Battle for the White House', on the aspects of Presidential elections based on months of travel and stay in the United States of America; 'A Scribe's Odyssey', chronicling the reminiscences of his professional career; 'A Pithamaha's Bible for Swindlers', on confidence tricksters; 'India's Most Admired and Hunted Chief Minister - Ramakrishna Hegde'; 'The Dalits of America - Their Gandhis and Ambedkars'; and 'Rare and Magnificent Monument to Democracy and Popular Supremacy - Vidhana Soudha'. His last book, 'Cockpit of India's Political Battles - Karnataka', was released in May this year.

Mysuru-Kushalnagar Railway Line gets Centre nod

- Project enters Railway 'Pink Book' despite stiff opposition from environmentalists
- Railway line will start from Belagola and end at Benegal in Mysuru district
- Train will not enter Kodagu and no damage to forests, say officials

New Delhi, July 13- Despite repeated assurances, statements in Parliament and submissions before the Court of Law by the Centre that it will not take up the controversial Railway Line between Mysuru and Madikeri via Kushalnagar, it has approved new rail lines between Mysuru (Belagola) and Kushalnagar.

The Ministry of Railways has sanctioned Rs.1,855 crore for the 87-km new line between Belagola in Srirangapatna taluk of Mandya district and Kushalnagar in Somwarpet taluk of Kodagu district.

With this, Kodagu district will get the train connectivity and it will be beneficial for the people of Mysuru, Periyapatna, Bylakuppe and Kushalnagar. "The Government has accorded approval for inclusion of Mysuru (Belagola)-Kushalnagar new line project (87 km) at a cost of Rs.1,854.62 crore (Rupees one thousand eight hundred fifty four crore and sixty two lakh only) chargeable to Capital under the Umbrella Work of New Lines subject to requisite approvals. This project appears with # mark in Pink Book," the Centre note said.

The project has been mentioned in the Pink Book (a registry detailing all approved projects and allocations made) of Indian Railways and Rs.1,000 crore has been allocated for the line.

The Mysuru-Madikeri Railway Line Project, in recent times, was first proposed in the UPA era in 2011 and was shelved after a survey commissioned by the Railways deemed the route to be unprofitable.

File photo

The Railway Line was listed in the Railway Budget 2016-17 under "new line" category at an estimated cost of Rs.667 crore and the techno-economic survey was completed. But the project — originally mooted over 100 years ago — did not gain further traction. The funding was to be made under the extra budgetary allocation, but the project was stuck in the maze of bureaucracy.

The Railways had conducted a detailed survey for the Mysuru-Kushalnagar Line but the survey for the Kushalnagar-Madikeri section could not be conducted as the Forest Department did not give permission for the same. Now, the project has been approved till Kushalnagar.

The proposed Railway line has, however, earned the wrath of environmentalists and green activists. "Once the line comes to Kushalnagar, it is easy for the authorities to extend the same to Madikeri and then to Mangaluru and Kerala. "The line will destroy the forests in the area that is known for its eco-sensitivity and biodiversity and the project will only benefit the contractor, timber and real estate lobbies. For 30 kilometres of the Railway line, we cannot sacrifice the environmental interests," they argue.

"The decision to go ahead with the Railway line is surprising as the then Minister of State for Railways Rajen Gohain had informed Parliament in December last year that the proposal to establish the rail line had been dropped as it was expected to be "unremunerative" and that there was no operational and financial justification for the Railways to take it up," said green activists.

No environment damage

Sources in South Western Railway (SWR) said that for the Mysuru-Kushalnagar line, there will be no environmental damage. They said that the SWR had conducted the survey and had sent the proposal to the Railway Board last month. The project cost will be shared by the Centre and the State and the modalities will be worked out once work is sanctioned and is included in the Budget, sources added.

Officials said that the Railway line will not enter Kodagu and will be within Mysuru district. The line will begin from Belagola and will end at Benegal near Kushalnagar. Benegal comes within Mysuru district and is on the Mysuru side of River Cauvery. The River separates Kodagu and Mysuru.

The preliminary Engineering-cum-Traffic Survey for the Railway line says that no forest land and coffee plantation land will come under the Railway line. The land required for the project is 522.8 hectares including dry and wet land there will be 71 bridges (minor and major), 43 Road Crossings, 15 Road Over Bridges and 15 Road Under Bridges.

School van, auto drivers' indefinite stir from July 15

Association appeals authorities to relax SC order and come to their rescue

Mysuru, July 13 (MTY&DM)- Refusing to follow the Supreme Court order that allows autos to carry only four children above the age of 12 and five if the children are below 12 and Omni Vans to carry six or seven children, the Mysuru City Private School Autorickshaws and Vans Owners and Drivers Association will launch an indefinite stir in city from July 15 (Monday).

Speaking to SOM this morning, Association Convenor Suresh said that there were over 3,500 autos and Maruti Omni Vans ferrying children to different schools daily.

Pointing out that they have been in this business for over two decades and making a living out of it, Suresh said that now the Police and RTO Officials have begun penalising them for carrying children beyond the number stipulated by the Supreme Court.

Maintaining that they used to carry eight children in autos and 12 in vans in the past which worked out for them, he said now the SC regulation has made their life miserable.

Noting that when this problem surfaced last year, the DC had convened a meeting in which autos were allowed to carry 8 children and vans 12 children, he said that since the beginning of this academic year, the Police and RTO have launched a drive against them, during which the drivers are heavily penalised for overloading and their DLs impounded for third time violation, which is unfair.

Highlighting that they can do business for only 10 months in a year as the Schools will be closed 2 months as holidays, Suresh said that with the strict enforcement of the SC order, they are finding it very difficult.

Claiming that they had no alternative other than launching an indefinite stir, Suresh appealed the authorities to relax the regulations and thus come to their rescue.

He further said that the parents of the school children have been informed about the indefinite stir well in advance.

Do not betray people's trust: Co-op. Federation Prez

Mysuru, July 13 (RKB&NNN)- There are 42,000 Co-operative Banks and Societies in rural and urban areas working for the economic development of the country, said N. Ganganna, President, Karnataka State Co-operative Federation, Bengaluru.

He was speaking after inaugurating the State-level (Hi-tech) Chief Executive Officers (CEOs) and Senior officials special workshop for all-round development of Co-operative Banks in Mysuru Division, jointly organised by Karnataka State Co-operative Federation, Karnataka State Urban Banks Federation, Mysuru District Co-operative Union and Bengaluru District Co-operative Union at a private hotel here yesterday.

There are 1,564 Urban Co-operative Banks doing a transaction of Rs. 2 lakh crore and in Karnataka there are 264 Urban Co-operative Banks with a deposit of Rs. 39,000 crore and advances of Rs. 24,000 crore. Hence, the trust that the people have imposed on us should not be betrayed, he said.

The Co-op. Banks and Societies must work under the guidance of Reserve Bank of India and Co-operation Department and whenever any amendments take place it is the duty of the CEOs to bring it to the notice of the Administrative Board as the members of the Board keep changing every five years, while the CEOs and officials remain till their tenure ends, said Ganganna.

The way forward for the Co-operative sector is to move from villages to cities just like the nationalised banks are moving from cities to villages. The CEOs must help the farmers regarding the loan waivers, he said.

Federation Vice-President N. Chandrappa opined that loan waivers are a potential threat to the very existence of Agricultural Credit Co-operative Societies.

Pointing out that Urban Co-operative Banks are running successfully because customers are treated in a friendly-manner, he underlined the role of the CEOs in the success of Banks.

Stressing on the need to be updated on the changes that the RBI makes from time to time, Chandrappa emphasised on the need to have a proper understanding of Banking Regulatory Act.

Noting that most of the politicians began their career through Co-operative Banks, he regretted that after coming to power, they tend to neglect the Rural Co-operative Banks.

Directors A.K. Manu Muthappa, S.B.M. Manju, State Federation Managing Director S. Arun Kumar, Co-operative Union, Mangaluru Division Assistant Registrar S.G. Manjunath Singh, Deputy Registrar Dr. Suresh Gowda and others were present.

Mysuru District Co-operative Union CEO G.M. Channabasappa welcomed. Nearly 70 CEOs and senior officials attended.

Technology cannot replace a Guru: Naidu

Laying the foundation stone for Dr. S. Radhakrishnan Auditorium at RIE which will be built with an estimated cost of Rs. 12 crore, the Vice President rued that Indian education system was passing through a critical phase as we strive towards quality and equity for all in the era of globalisation. Naidu's topic of speech was "Reflections on School and Teacher Education in India."

Beginning his address in Kannada, much to the delight of the audience and students, Naidu switched to English and occasionally spoke in Telugu, his mother-tongue. He asked teachers to focus on education inside classrooms.

"Are we preparing our children to be merely successful each year in the annual examinations? Is it not equally important to prepare them to face various challenges in life by providing them with the requisite life-skills? While making students to excel in academics, the focus has to be on overall personality development. At the same time, each student's individual brilliance must be allowed to shine," he opined.

Children, teachers and education were the three words uttered by Naidu throughout his speech. "We need to introspect, rejuvenate and move ahead by introducing changes in education in accordance with the changing times. Quoting from Dr. S. Radhakrishnan, who said 'knowledge gives us power, love gives us fullness', Naidu said, "We should have concern not only for Homo Sapiens but all living beings and nature. This universal message is explicitly contained in India's age-old world view of 'Sarve Jana Sukhino Bhavantu and Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam.'

Role of teachers

Focussing on a teacher's role that is crucial in building a literate, enlightened and humane society, the Vice-President said that the teacher is the guru, mentor, guide, friend and philosopher of students. "In fact, the Guru-Shishya Parampara of the ancient Gurukula system encapsulated this philosophy. While technology has greatly enhanced teaching-learning processes in today's world, it can never replace the Guru, who is an embodiment of knowledge and wisdom," he said.

"A teacher's role will never get diminished by technology. While technology can aid in faster acquisition of knowledge, it is only through human touch that a change in the attitude of students for the larger good of the society can be brought about. In Gurukula, the Guru would impart education for the all-round development of children and graduate them only after ensuring that the learners have mastered the skills that were expected of them. That is how Dronacharya trained Arjuna to be an archer rather than wrestler," he said.

Parents too crucial

On the role of parents, the Vice-President noted that parents are important stakeholders in education and they should be made aware of the importance and scope of education. "Thrusting parental ambitions on children and pressurising them to excel all the time are not healthy developments in the society. Students should be allowed to be creative and innovative. Also, judicious use of electronic gadgets is necessary for productive time management," Naidu felt.

Earlier, in his welcome speech, NCERT Director Prof. H.K. Senapathy disclosed that one more Regional Institute of Education is coming up at Nellore in Andhra Pradesh next year and it will reduce the burden of RIE in Mysuru. "Mysuru RIE has so far selflessly served students from Karnataka, Kerala, Andhra Pradesh and Tamil Nadu," he said.

RIE, Mysuru, Principal Prof. Y. Sreekanth proposed a vote of thanks.

After attending the event at RIE, Naidu inaugurated the five-day Golden Jubilee celebrations of Central Institute of Indian Languages (CIIL). Later, the Vice-President flew to Chennai from Mysore Airport.

Rao and MP Pratap Simha in city this morning as (from left) Founder Director of CIIL Mysuru Dr. D.P. Naidu's rare gesture

At the event at CIIL, the Vice-President was told that the Founder Director of CIIL Mysuru Dr. D.P. Pattanaik was among the audience. Hearing this, Venkaiah Naidu asked Dr. Pattanaik to come on stage and felicitated him. "People like you must be on stage. Sir, please come on stage," Naidu said, extending his arms. Taking a brief from CIIL officials, Naidu spoke about the contributions of Dr. Pattanaik for the CIIL to grow to this level today as the leading light of Indian languages. Not only this, Naidu was seen freely conversing with Mysuru-Kodagu MP Pratap Simha. Both were seen comfortable with each other and their body language showed a close association.

National Education Policy will pave way for resurgent educational system

Saying that teaching and learning should not be mechanical and there is a need for teachers to provide examples of real life situations to enable better understanding by students, Naidu said that the new National Policy on Education will pave the way for a resurgent educational system that contributes for the prosperity and well-being of all our people.

"The new age teacher not only has to be up-to-date on teaching and learning methods, but also has to actively participate in the preparation of syllabi, textbooks and teaching-learning materials. Teachers should be able to connect with children and respond to their needs in imaginative ways. They need to be creators of knowledge, value what children learn from their home, social and cultural environment and create opportunities for children to discover, learn and blossom to their full potential," Naidu opined.

'Don't neglect motherland, mother-tongue'

Mysuru, July 13 (RK&BCT)- 'Amma' or 'Ammi' comes from the heart while 'Mommy' comes from the lips, Vice-President M. Venkaiah Naidu said in city this morning as he urged people to speak in their mother-tongue. "Respect the language that has come from your mother's womb," he said.

Naidu was speaking after inaugurating the five-day Golden Jubilee celebrations of Central Institute of Indian Languages (CIIL) at its premises in Manasagangothri on Hunsur Road. He asked people not to forget their own language but said it was fine to talk in English when speaking to a foreigner.

"I always tell people that one should never forget his or her mother, motherland, native place and mother tongue. Those who forget cannot be called human beings, they are something else. So, always speak in your mother tongue. Respect the language that has come from your mother's womb," he said.

"Language is a tool for intellectual and emotional expression. We now use English language to address a mother — mommy or daddy... But, 'Amma', such a beautiful language, for a mother, comes from the heart or 'Ammi' in Urdu comes from the heart, while mommy comes from the lips. So, Hindi, Sanskrit or Urdu or Telugu, or Kannada we should always speak in our mother's tongue," Naidu said.

Naidu said students should imbibe the culture of respecting their motherland and mother tongue on a par with their own mother. "Whether it is me, Karnataka CM Kumaraswamy we all studied in government schools and I firmly believe in their ability to coach students on a par with private institutions," he said, encouraging parents to consider sending their wards to government schools.

"There are 121 languages which are spoken by 10,000 or more people in India and it is our duty to protect all of them," he opined. He appreciated the CIIL for doing invaluable work on protecting Indian languages. "CIIL is doing meaningful research on communication and languages and the research will go a long way in protecting all the 22 scheduled languages," he said.

The Parliament now allows its members to express themselves in any of the 22 scheduled languages. "We must explore the possibility of permitting our Parliamentarians to speak in their mother tongues in the House. We must leverage all possible avenues of technology to make this possible," he said.

The Supreme Court of India has decided to make available its judgements in six vernacular languages, to start with. This is a positive step in the direction of removing language barriers and ensuring equal access to justice. Also, the Finance Ministry will conduct examinations for employment in Regional Rural Banks in 13 regional languages in addition to English and Hindi. All these initiatives will help in creating a level playing field, the Vice-President said.

CIIL Director Dr. D.G. Rao, Joint Director of Ministry of Human Resource Development Sanjay Krishna, Mayor Pushpalatha Jagannath, Mysuru-Kodagu MP Pratap Simha and other officials were present. Naidu released a book "Telugu Siri" published by CIIL, Journal on Classical Telugu, an app for Online Testing and Evaluation of Languages, Online Dictionary and one more app for India's Lesser Known Languages.

NATAKA in Karnataka

The political drama in our State with every passing election is becoming like a Bollywood Director Rohit Shetty's comical-action with multiple star cast — there are heroes and villains, there are fighting scenes and crying scenes, there are fancy cars and private jets. But unlike 'Chennai Express' audience who were entertained, the 'Karnataka Express' audience, the voters, are witnessing a horror show.

In January this year, there was a "trading" war between BJP and Congress where the BJP had sent its MLAs into hiding to Gurugram while trying to entice Congress MLAs. Back then, Siddharamaiah had thundered, "Saffron party leaders are trying to destabilise the Government for the last six months." And added saying, "Yeddyurappa has crossed 75 but is not mature. He desires to become CM again by indulging in horse-trading. This is against the Constitution." Oh! Congress never indulges in horse-trading and has always been on the right side of the Constitution?

Now again, Siddharamaiah is blaming the BJP for the present turmoil. But of the 10 MLAs sitting in Mumbai, aren't five his staunch followers? In January this year, many Congress MLAs said it was the tussle between Siddharamaiah and D.K. Shivakumar about plum posts in Boards and Corporations going to their acolytes that had caused discontent. This time, H.D. Deve Gowda's family members ordering MLAs around and not allowing them to take decisions is said to be the reason.

Everyone knows when it comes to politics, people who make decisions about transfers and approvals are the ones who make money. So, are the MLAs frustrated that they are unable to make any money as they have been simply given a position but cannot use to enrich themselves?

Now, while our leaders were practicing yoga in resorts and enjoying spa treatments, something important happened in Bengaluru. Two days ago, on Thursday, while our leaders were busy playing hide-and-seek, the National Investigation Agency seized five fabricated hand grenades, one timer device, three electric circuits, suspected explosive substances and components used for making IEDs (Improvised Explosive Device) from a house in Soladevanahalli area in North Bengaluru. Yes, terrorists from an outfit called Jamat-ul-Mujahideen were planning to bomb Bengaluru and no one was bothered! Even the media didn't give it the prominence it required.

While our leaders were seen wearing gold watches, driving in expensive SUVs, flying between Mumbai and Bengaluru in private jets, Rs.132.21 crore meant to feed poor and malnourished children was still lying in the bank unused! Yes, while our netas were getting fat in resorts, children went hungry as their food money received by the Karnataka Government from the Centre under the 'Poshan Abhiyan' Scheme to rid malnutrition just sat unused.

Also, while our Water Resources Minister D.K. Shivakumar was busy standing in the rain outside a hotel in Mumbai trying to win back the rebel MLAs, like a heart-broken hero standing outside the house of his lady love in the wind and rain to show his sincerity and convince her to come back, the Karnataka State Natural Disaster Monitoring Centre warned that it has been 40 days since Bengaluru got rains and that the city may face a major water crisis!

Oh! And while all this was happening, the Mayor of Bengaluru, instead of sorting out water crisis, is busy trying to name a Road after Minister D.K. Shivakumar's father ! Yes. Naming one-kilometre stretch of Road in Bengaluru as 'Dodda Aladahalli Kempegowda' is the priority for the Mayor of Bengaluru when people may not have water in the city. I guess that's good because then the city needs water tankers and that translates to commission.

Now, the BJP has moved its MLAs to a resort as the hunter has become the hunted. Since Congress-JD(S) lost their MLAs, they are now hunting BJP MLAs. And everyone knows JD(S) and Congress have the best 'Hunting Specialist' and 'Safe-Keeper' in Indian politics — H.D. Kumaraswamy and D.K. Shivakumar.

The irony of this time's "hide-and-seek" is that D.K. Shivakumar — and back in 2002 — had managed to keep 40 Congress legislators from Maharashtra safe in Golden Palms Resort, Bengaluru. This time he had to rush to Maharashtra as someone was keeping his MLAs safe there, away from Bengaluru.

The JD(S) is a specialist in resort politics. That is why one JD(S) leader boasted to Economic Times newspaper saying, "We set the trend and now resort politics has become the norm." Wah! What a thing to be proud of. But he is right. In 1983, Ramakrishna Hegde, who led Janata Party in Karnataka, fearing a threat to topple his Government by Indira Gandhi, had hid his MLAs! And who was the man who was by his side then? It was none other than former Prime Minister H.D. Deve Gowda, father of H.D. Kumaraswamy.

The way political parties are trying to hide their MLAs, pretty soon banks will offer a locker service to deposit MLAs who can be retrieved when it is time for the floor test.

If the people of Karnataka vote the same resort politicians, then we deserve what we are getting. As long as we have irresponsible voters, we will continue to suffer irresponsible leaders.

For now, just when we thought the CM would resign, he has confidently asked for a 'Vote of Confidence!' May be, he is convinced by what his astrology-obsessed brother Revanna said, "My brother has the blessings of God and will continue as the CM." We wonder when God will bless us, the people of Karnataka, with rains and sincere leaders with brains.

The Sour Truth

It is monsoon season in Kodagu and though rains are less this year, people in remote villages of Kodagu, who have grown Garcinia gummi-gutta tree in their estates or have access to the tree grown in the wild, are busy in preparing Kachampuli, the dark, tart vinegar. Kachampuli preparation has been passed on from generations and is indispensable in Coorg cuisine. Every Coorg kitchen has a couple of bottles, or more, of Kachampuli tucked away at the corners or stored in the attic. This Weekend Star Supplement introduces readers to this enigmatic liquid and explains the process of obtaining it from yellow fruits hanging on top of tall trees.

Kachampuli

The Quintessential Coorg Condiment

A full-fledged processing unit at Ponnampet Forestry College

Realising Prime Minister Narendra Modi's 'Make in India' initiative

Students of Forestry College, Ponnampet, extract the seeds from the fruit. Once the succulent aril is separated from the seeds, the extracted juice is boiled and stirred constantly to procure the thick Kachampuli.

Souring agents are an integral and inseparable part of our culinary traditions. Depending on the State and community, souring agents vary. Apart from lip-puckering tamarind and lime juice that is quite ubiquitous in most Indian dishes, there are a host of other souring agents that enhance the flavour of dishes like Kodava Pandi Curry (pork curry) where Kachampuli makes it the 'Dish with a Zing'.

The concentrated juice is obtained from Garcinia gummi-gutta, the same fruit that is used in dried form in parts of Kerala, where it is known as punampuli or kodampuli/kudampuli. It is a relative of kokum, which is used in Mangalorean, Konkan and Maharashtrian cuisines. In Kodava language, the fruit is known as 'Panpuli' and its boiled extract is 'Kachampuli'.

The fruit is like a large Amla but with prominent sections. In its fresh form, it is known to possess medicinal properties and is the basis for many weight-loss products. The English name is Brindle Berry. Before it is stored, the Panpuli is taken apart in slivers, dried and then smoked. It's here that the green fruit turns into matt black. Later, dry pieces are soaked in warm water and torn apart before being added to the curry.

Juice preparation process

A bunch of raw Panpuli fruit | Ripe fruit in a bamboo basket to extract juice | The juice being boiled down | Ready to use Kachampuli | Bottled Vinegar | Dried Panpuli fruit

In Kodagu, the fruit is left out in baskets until the pulp breaks down. A large vat is kept below to collect the juice and the pulp is removed. The juice at first is pale and golden. It is then boiled in large clay pots until it turns dark burgundy in colour. This slow heating turns it into a syrupy vinegar. The final result is a dark and thick liquid and this liquid extract is known as Kachampuli.

Interestingly, Kachampuli improves with age. The older brews are preferred over the newer ones for cooking. The new bottles are usually stored in attics in Kodagu and are left there to mature and attain that perfect texture, taste and colour. Kachampuli is usually used in the final stages of cooking, mainly in meat and fish dishes, most famously in Pandi Curry and fish curry.

An expensive commodity

While Kachampuli was abundantly available in the open market earlier, now it is a scarce and an expensive commodity even in Kodagu, its hometown, thanks to the present generation that is unwilling to take the trouble of preparing it as it is a long-drawn and pain-staking process. Adulteration of Kachampuli to make a quick buck too has become rampant.

A fully grown Panpuli or Garcinia gummi-gutta tree in Kodagu with its yellow fruits.

Considering the rarity of the fruit and its many uses, College of Forestry at Ponnampet in South Kodagu has started a full-fledged unit that procures the Garcinia gummi-gutta fruit from farmers, processes it, prepares Kachampuli and then markets it. This initiative has not only ensured that the tradition continues but also eased the scarcity of the unique product in the market.

The initiative at the College was started by former Dean of the College Dr. B.C. Uthaiah and continued on a major scale by the present Dean Dr. C. G. Kushalappa, who has conducted extensive research in Devarakadus, the Sacred Forests of Kodagu and the wild and edible fruits of Kodagu, and Dr. B.N. Satish, Assistant Professor, Department of Forest Products and Utilisation.

Hands-on Training

The College is following the traditional methods of using forest produce available in Kodagu. "Our College offers Hands-on Training (HoT) programme to add value to non-timber forest produce where wild and edible fruits of Kodagu like Garcinia gummi-gutta, gooseberry, kokum and Karada (karmunji in Kodava language) fruit are made into products including pickles, jams and jellies, candies, squash, toffees and, of course, Kachampuli. This apart, we do produce hair care products from soap nuts and agarbathi. These exotic products are marketed under Sayhadri Brand," says Dr. Kushalappa.

"This initiative is completely agriculture-and-farmer-oriented and we want to tell our farmers that their products have value and market. We provide plantation material or saplings, standardise production, maintain quality and focus on effective waste disposal. We have procured Government of India-manufactured machines from Coimbatore and we have a larger plan to set up Small Scale Industry production units at Ponnampet," he explains.

Efforts to retain youths from migration

Basically it is to retain the youths in Kodagu who are migrating to cities in search of job opportunities. "We want to tell them that they can lead a comfortable life by adopting innovative farming and cultivate such unique fruits in a large scale as Kodagu is a natural zone under Western Ghats for such fruits. Our intention is to make them self-reliant. It is our way of nation-building aligning with the theme of Prime Minister Narendra Modi's Make in India initiative," he rues.

"It is an entire world out there when it comes to wild berries and there is a huge market. For example, Garcinia gummi-gutta extract by multi-national companies is sold in the US and Europe as bio-slim products. We are trying to tie up with institutes like Central Food Technological Research Institute (CFTRI) for product development," Dr. Kushalappa explains.

Grafted trees for high yield

Apart from producing the actual and authentic Kachampuli, the College supplies Garcinia gummi-gutta saplings for large-scale cultivation. "It is a huge tree and no coffee plant can grow under it. Our grafted tree does not grow that tall and growers can take up integrated coffee and Garcinia gummi-gutta cultivation. Our saplings are short and gives a high yield," he reveals.

On the Kachampuli product marketed by the Forestry College, Dr. Satish says that the product is made in a traditional way with the use of modern techniques. "It is free from any sort of adulteration and we have not used any preservatives. There is a great demand for the product from both residents of Kodagu and the natives who live outside the district," he says.

One tree, many fruits, multiple uses

The Garcinia gummi-gutta is a small or medium-sized tree and the bark of the tree is grey, smooth and contains abundance of bright-yellow gamboges (a gum resin produced by various trees, used as a yellow pigment and in medicine as a purgative). The tree starts bearing fruits when it is eight-years-old and it continues to bear fruits till it reaches 40 to 45 years. The fruits are two to three inches in diameter and are yellow when ripe with six to eight grooves. One tree can yield 100 to 125 kgs of fruit.

Around 25 kgs of Garcinia gummi-gutta fruit is required to prepare one litre of Kachampuli with an investment of Rs. 300 to Rs. 350 per litre. Once the product is ready, it can be sold up to Rs. 1,500 per litre.

There will be six to eight seeds surrounded by a succulent aril (an extra seed covering, typically coloured and hairy or fleshy). Usually, the Garcinia gummi-gutta flowering takes place from February to May every year and from June to August it is fruiting season and that's the time when people of Kodagu get on to prepare the famed Kachampuli.

Uses of Garcinia gummi-gutta fruits

The Garcinia gummi-gutta fruits are edible, but too acid to be eaten raw. They are valued for their dried rind which is used in Travancore-Cochin and Malabar as a condiment for flavouring curries in place of tamarind or lime. In Sri Lanka, the fruits are picked under-ripe, the thick pericarp cut into sections, dried in sunlight and preserved for future use. The dried material is used along with salt in the curing fish. The edible oil extracted from the seed resembling kokum butter is used extensively in preparation of the local dishes.

Apart from using the fruit and its extracts for food purposes, the raw and processed rind of the fruit is extensively used as a condiment, coagulant and for polishing gold and silver articles. The Garcinia gummi-gutta seed is an edible source of fat and interestingly the tree does not have any pest or disease and is a characteristic trait of the tree family. The fruit is also used in Indian traditional medicine for edema, delayed menstruation, constipation and other intestinal disorders.

Centre positive on Emergency Hospital for Kodagu, says MP

Mysuru, July 13- Following a social media campaign, protests and bike rally over the demand for an Emergency Hospital in Kodagu, Mysuru-Kodagu MP Pratap Simha has said that he had received a call from Durga Shakthi Nagpal, Officer on Special Duty to Union Health Minister Dr. Harsh Vardhan and that she is positively considering the request.

Pratap Simha, along with Madikeri MLA Appachu Ranjan, Union Minister of Chemicals and Fertilisers D.V. Sadananda Gowda, Union Minister for Railways Piyush Goyal and Bengaluru South MP Tejasvi Surya, met Dr. Harsh Vardhan in New Delhi recently urging him to consider the growing demand for a super-speciality Hospital in Kodagu.

The tourist hotspot of Kodagu is a hilly district in the lap of Western Ghats and covers an area of 4,102 sq km. The Minister was told that even today the district does not have a major hospital and residents have been forced to travel more than a hundred kilometres, either to Mangaluru or Mysuru, to avail benefits of advanced medicine, even in case of an emergency.

Every year, lakhs of tourists visit Kodagu and is a birthplace for River Cauvery that is a lifeline of South Karnataka and Tamil Nadu. Despite this, hospitals in Kodagu lack cardiac care, trauma centre, specialist doctors and neuro and orthopaedic surgeons to deal with medical emergencies.

Mysuru-Kodagu MP Pratap Simha, along with Madikeri MLA Appachu Ranjan, Union Minister of Chemicals and Fertilisers D.V. Sadananda Gowda, Union Minister for Railways Piyush Goyal and Bengaluru South MP Tejasvi Surya, met Dr. Harsh Vardhan in New Delhi recently to press for a Super-Speciality Hospital in Kodagu.

Kodagu Institute of Medical Sciences, Madikeri, that is proposed to be upgraded to a Multi-speciality Hospital.

Patients from Kodagu need to travel at least 150 kilometres to reach a specialty hospital and eight out of 10 succumb on the way, the Minister was told. The demand for such a medical facility has been long pending but successive Governments have not taken any steps in this direction, Pratap Simha told the Minister.

Soon after their meeting, Durga Shakthi Nagpal informed the MP that the Centre is considering the request positively and the Hospital will be set up at Kodagu Institute of Medical Sciences, Madikeri. It will have super-specialities including cardiology, neuro surgery and poly trauma departments, the MP was informed.

It may be recalled here that earlier, Pratap Simha had promised that he would give Rs.5 crore from his Member of Parliament Local Area Development Fund over a period of two years for the Hospital. For the record, Kodagu Institute of Medical Sciences in Madikeri is a 319-bed associated Teaching Hospital.

Barefooted Revanna hops temples

Revanna

Bengaluru, July 13 (BCT & DM)- The chaos and confusion in Karnataka's politics is leading to a lot of footfalls in South India's famed places of worship. Even the Rebel MLAs today visited Shirdi Saibaba Temple.

Among the leaders of political parties who are seeking divine intervention, focus is on highly superstitious member of the Gowda family, H.D. Revanna.

In a week he has travelled to Tirupati's famous Balaji temple and also the Chamundeshwari temple in Mysuru, hoping his beliefs will help save the Congress-JD(S) government led by his younger brother H.D. Kumaraswamy, which is teetering on the edge of collapse. Interestingly, Revanna is moving around barefoot and even in the corridors of Vidhana Soudha.

The Minister yesterday morning visited Chamundeshwari Temple in Mysuru. On Tuesday, he was in Sringeri seeking the blessings of goddess Sharadambe at Sharada Peetha. On Wednesday, he left for Tirupati. To facilitate Revanna's smooth Darshan, Kumaraswamy had sent a letter to the Joint Executive Officer of the Tirumala Tirupati Devasthanams (TTD), requesting for VVIP break darshan early morning on Thursday.

A VVIP break darshan is available only for the President, Prime Minister, Chief Ministers, Ministers, top political groups and leaders, Judges and Civil Servants. This darshan allows VVIPs to stand in front of the idol for some time and will be offered Theertha and Arathi.

There is an interesting point in Revanna walking barefoot. He made sure that his father H.D. Deve Gowda walked barefoot to file his nomination papers for this year's Tumakuru Lok Sabha seat. Following his son's advice, Deve Gowda walked barefoot braving the scorching sun to file his papers. As a result, both of his feet were swollen with burns, which later turned into wounds. Unable to walk, the 86-year-old JD(S) patriarch has to rest for a long time at his home in Padmanabhanagar. Deve Gowda, however, lost the elections and his barefooted walk did not yield any results.

Meanwhile, to keep their flocks together, all three political parties — Congress, BJP and JD(S) — have herded most of their legislators to either resorts or hotels in and around Bengaluru. The rebel legislators who have tendered their resignations are staying put in a Mumbai hotel.

Water Resources Minister D.K. Shivakumar met rebel Congress MLA MTB Nagaraj early this morning in a bid to convince him to withdraw his resignation. Shivakumar who arrived at MTB Nagaraj's residence at Garudacharpalya even before dawn held talks with Nagaraj for over 6 hours. After a marathon meeting with Shivakumar, MTB Nagaraj said that he had sought some more time for taking an appropriate decision. Shivakumar later left for Chikkaballapura to meet another rebel Congress MLA Dr. K. Sudhakar.

'Purohits now shown in bad light'

Mysuru, July 13 (MK&SD)- "Purohit is the one who wishes for welfare of the society, but nowadays, social media is showing them in bad light," said historian Dr. Shelvapillai Iyengar.

He was speaking at a meeting organised to discuss on the subject 'Hardships faced by Hindu Priests (Purohits and Archakas)' in Krishnamurthypuram Sriramamandira in city on Thursday.

"One has to study Vedas and Shastra to become a Purohit. Only those who have studied Vedas for ten years should be called as a good Purohit and for at least two years one needs to study Vedas seriously to take up the profession," he added.

"Purohits are working for betterment of the society since olden days. They guide householders during auspicious ceremonies and festivals. They are offering selfless service to the society. But certain vested interests are spreading false propaganda about Purohits which they should stop," he said.

Nowadays, just for a meagre salary Rs.10,000, Purohits are working in temples and their situation is going from bad to worse. In earlier days, under the patronage of Maharajas, Brahmins used to get land and other necessary aids for their livelihood and earned respect from all, but now the time has changed. Purohits should now establish a separate Association to address these issues. Brahmin Association must lend ears to listen to their woes.

—Dr. Shelvapillai Iyengar, Historian

Speaking on the occasion, City and District Brahmin Association President D.T. Prakash said 'Purohits always try to imbibe self-confidence among householders by performing necessary rituals. Association is planning to start helpline for Brahmin community with 15 Conveners in all the districts."

During his speech, Social worker K. Raghuram Vajpayee said that there is a great demand for young Vedic scholars in foreign countries.

Brahmin youth should study Vedas and work in an organised manner for betterment of Purohits.

Sri Abhinava Ramanuja Swamiji, Uttaradi Mutt Administrator Aniruddha Acharya, Krishnadhama President Krishnadas Puranik, Archakas Association president Krishnamurthy, leaders H.G. Giridhar, Gopal Rao, C.V. Parthasarathi, Shankara Narayana Shastri, Prahlad, Manjunath Shastri, Prashant, Suresh Mulluru, M.R. Balakrishna, Apoorva Suresh, Vikram Iyengar, Jayasimha Sridhar, Kadakola Jagadish, Suchendra, Chakrapani, K.M. Nishanth and others were present.

Maldives National Swimming Team concludes training in city

A group photo of the Maldives National Swimming Team which concluded its month-long National Training Camp at Chamundi Vihar Swimming Pool in city.

Mysuru, July 13- The members of the Swimming Association of Maldives who were in Mysuru from June 16, with eight (five male and three women) National Swimmers for their National Training Camp at Chamundi Vihar Swimming Pool, concluded their camp today.

The eight swimmers who took part in the National training camp were Ali Imaan, Hussain Haish Hassan, Mohamed Hussain, Ahmed Azzan Zahid, Mohamed Joodh Fayaz, Aishath Sausan, Aishath Ulya Shaig and Hamma Ahmed. The swimmers were accompanied by two coaches — National Head coach Ibrahim Musa and Farass Afeef — and Swimming Association of Maldives Vice-President Ismail Ali.

Speaking to SOM, the Maldives National coach Ibrahim Musa said that they chose Mysuru as the centre to have the National Camp as they did not have the facilities to train in their country in a swimming pool of international stature.

He also said that their previous training base was in Sri Lanka but they could not opt to the country as it was not safe. He lauded the efforts the swimming coach Aravind of Bangalore Swimming Research Centre, who made this possible by arranging the camp in Mysuru.

He also said that the swimmers took time to adopt to the change in weather conditions initially in Mysuru, but after a week they were back to their routine.

He said that the training camp proved worthwhile as the swimmers are preparing for the forthcoming Indian Ocean Island Games to be held in Mauritius from July 18 to 29 and the Asian Age Group Swimming Championship to be held in Bengaluru, India in September.

Tennis Talk

By U.B. Acharya

It is Djoko Vs Fedex in Wimbledon finals!

Novak Djokovic and Roger Federer on those Wimbledon Courts 2017.

While in ICC Cricket World Cup finals, we will see a new world champion either England or New Zealand, what else is new in the world of tennis? It is the same OLD dogs (sorry, pun unintended, actually two great rivals and champions), top seed Novak Djokovic and second seed Roger Federer fighting for the coveted silverware. Both the matches will be played on Sunday, July the 14th afternoon in London and for sports fans it would be a tough call. I for once, would be following tennis live on TV and cricket on my mobile during service change over in tennis. It would have been the other way around had India been playing in Cricket World Cup finals.

Now, let us go back to the history of tennis. Federer is undoubtedly the GOAT (Greatest of All Times) by virtue of his number of Major titles and number of weeks as ATP's top ranked player plus over 100 ATP titles and incredible win-loss percentage. He has won more than 1,200 matches and only three Australian greats namely Ken Rosewall, Roy Emerson and Rod Laver have won more matches than him mainly because these players have played for 35+ years of tournament tennis. Meanwhile, this is Federer's 23rd year of professional tennis but in these days of power hitting, playing top class tennis just three weeks short of 38 years is very creditable. As far as Djokovic is concerned, I would say 'Woh bhi kuch kum nahi hai.' He is the current ATP Number One raked player for the past seven months, holds an individual Slam (not a Grand Slam but won all the four Major titles continuously), has won seven Australian Singles titles (a record). Also, he is the winner of three of the last four Major tournaments. Against Federer, he holds a 25-22 head to head lead. More importantly, Djokovic has won their past four encounters.

Let me now dig deeper into some quantitative analysis of all past and present champions. Federer stands head and shoulder above the rest with some 115 points. Laver comes second with a decent 105 points with Djokovic following with 98 points. Rafael Nadal is fourth with 89 points. The rest of them like Pete Sampras, Emerson, Rosewall and Ivan Lendl have all less than 70 points. While Djokovic and Nadal definitely have an opportunity to overtake Laver, their matching Federer's record depends on Federer's performance and longevity.

Regarding Sundays finals, while there is a very strong crowd support for Federer, one can never rule out Djokovic's tenacity. Both have a lot at stake. Federer is going for his 21st Major (erroneously referred to as Grand Slam) title and truly historic ninth Wimbledon title. Djokovic is gunning for his 16th title to come closer to Nadal's 18 titles. The general saying is "May the better player win" but in this case with both in their top forms, the luckier player will win. We shall know by Sunday 10 pm.

WORD OF THE DAY

Sedulous

Pronunciation: SEJ-uh-lus.

Meaning: Involving or accomplished with careful perseverance; Diligent in application or pursuit.
Origin: No fooling—the word sedulous ultimately comes from Latin se dolus, which literally means "without guile." Those two words were eventually melded into one, sedulo, meaning "sincerely" or "diligently," and from that root developed Latin sedulus and English sedulous. Don't let the sed- beginning mislead you; sedulous is not related to words such as sedentary or sedate (those derive from the Latin verb sedēre, meaning "to sit"). Sedulous people are not the sedate or sedentary sort. They're the hardworking types Scottish author Samuel Smiles must have had in mind when he wrote in his 1859 book Self-Help, "Sedulous attention and painstaking industry always mark the true worker."
Example: "The charter elementary school where I work, while pedagogically inspiring and impressively staffed, is a reflection of our education system as a whole: sedulous people stretched too thin; classrooms with too many bodies; little, if any, funding." — Natalie Babcock, The Los Angeles Times.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Sitting pretty

Meaning: Comfortably placed or well situated.

Origin: We don't know how the expression 'sitting pretty' was derived. That is, we don't know who or what was being referred to as 'pretty' when the term was coined. The image of a young woman posing for a photograph or ducks sitting tight and making a difficult target for shooters may spring to mind. The expression isn't known until the early 20th century so both of the above are plausible. We do have something that can help locate the source of the phrase. The word 'pretty' has another meaning, in addition to the more usual 'attractive' and that is 'in an advantageous or safe position'.
The earliest uses of the phrase in print seem to point to 'sitting pretty' just meaning 'sitting (in a real or metaphorical sense) in a position of advantage. Those first uses are all American and we can conclude that 'sitting pretty' was coined in the USA. Here's an example, from the Nebraska newspaper The Lincoln Star, May 1915: Clyde Wares returned to his club in the metropolis yesterday and according to reports everything is 'sitting pretty'.
